

What do
domestic violence victims need most?

Support.

NOT Judgment.

Domestic violence happens to people we all know and care about. If you think that someone you know is being abused, just reaching out and offering to listen can make a big difference.

Don't blame her for what has happened.

Focus on her safety, and not her choices.

Tell her you noticed that something may be wrong.

Tell her you care.

Be the person she can always talk to.

It's a start. Together, we can end domestic violence.

Help  Domestic Violence in the District

Learn what you can do at www.StopDVinDC.org

A message from the members of the DC Coalition Against Domestic Violence OEI Project